About Smith & Wollensky

Smith & Wollensky has been serving up the finest USDA Prime dry-aged steaks in America since it first opened its doors in New York in 1977. After winning the heart of the Big Apple, those award-winning steaks were soon to be found all across the States, from the windy city of Chicago to the hot sands of Miami Beach. Smith & Wollensky launched its London site in June 2015 in the historic Grade II-listed Adelphi Building just off the Strand, offering a selection of signature USDA Prime dry-aged steaks and premium seafood, alongside award-winning wines and classic cocktails.

At the heart of every Smith & Wollensky is the dry-ageing process and London is no exception with both a dry-ageing room and a butchery on-site for true field-to-fork traceability. Selected from the top 2% of beef in the US and hand-picked for its rich, even marbling, the USDA Prime is dry-aged for no less than 28 days to intensify flavour and increase tenderness for the very best steaks in London.

Shellfish is a centrepiece to behold, try a signature shellfish platter to make the most of the coast. Platters of varying sizes include the likes of lobster, crab, oysters and clams served over crushed ice. Sides are by no means sidelines either – the buttermilk onion rings and truffled mac ‘n’ cheese to share are the stuff of legend. Desserts, meanwhile, include the famous gigantic chocolate cake that will encourage even those with the strictest willpower to ditch the diet, alongside classics such as New York-style cheesecake.

Set against a handsome backdrop of dark mahogany woods, buttery green leathers and vibrant pops of red, the restaurant itself has been designed by interiors superstar Martin Brudnizki. Spread across two floors, discerning drinkers can choose between two destination bars – including the ever popular Adelphi bar, adorned with Art Deco tiling and glossy marble surfaces. Try one of 30 classic cocktails with a contemporary twist – from Martinis to Manhattans – or a glass of something special from the wide range of award-winning wines from both the old and new worlds with many available by the glass.

Private Dining & Events

From the glamorous reception through to the 1920s-inspired artworks on the walls, Smith & Wollensky evokes the elegance and timeless appeal of the restaurant’s rich heritage across the pond while capturing the essence of the capital’s current dining scene.

Smith & Wollensky occupies two floors with two full service bars and three private dining rooms (one with its own dedicated bar). Far more than just a restaurant, this versatile space can be hired exclusively to host a variety of events from stylish dinner soirées to full blown parties with DJs or even a live band.

All rooms have dedicated fibre optic broadband making them perfect for live streaming or video conferencing, as well as state of the art music systems allowing your own choice of music. Both the Liberty room and the Theodore Roosevelt room are equipped with 55” plasma screen TVs.
